

Criticizing is often easier than getting involved, especially when it comes to government. Yet history shows the better way to change government is from within. During his seventy years in Babylon, Daniel influenced three ungodly administrations. His decades of public service show how... Godly capable people can influence government from within. Standing for your convictions can be lonely yet effective. When others want you out of office, God can keep you in. A godly forgotten voice in government can be heard again. You can finish strong when you want to quit...and more. Beyond Daniels life, The Inside Man also addresses Gods design for government, what to pray for a president, and what to consider before voting. It is an important read for any believer considering public service, and a reminder to pray for believers and unbelievers in public services. DR.
